

ABERDEEN CHAMBER MUSIC CONCERTS CELEBRATES 80 YEARS!

If you enjoy the Scottish Ensemble concerts, you might also appreciate the season of Monday night concerts promoted by “Aberdeen Chamber Music Concerts.”

In particular, you might like to come and hear Scottish Ensemble cellist, Naomi Pavri, performing at our next concert on Monday 12th January, 2015, along with her pianist husband, Fali. It will be held in the Cowdray Hall at 7.30 pm. Their lovely programme will include works by Brahms, Sally Beamish, Mayer and Rachmaninov. Do come and enjoy!

Tickets at £12 (with £6 ticket for all under 25 and those in receipt of benefits) are on sale at Aberdeen Box Office, or you can buy them at the door of the Cowdray Hall on the night from 7 pm.

PLEASE NOTE - Our following two concerts on 16th February and 16th March will be held in Queen's Cross Church - the Rubens Quartet from the Netherlands will play works by Beethoven, Roukens and Brahms on 16th February, and the wind quintet, Arctic Winds, will be the performers on 16th March.

If you haven't yet discovered these excellent concerts, do give them a try!

For more details visit www.aberdeenchambermusic.org

